EVANGELIST PREACHES ON OBEDIENCE

TELLS NON-BELIEVERS SOME PLAIN FACTS.

Six Make Start For Better Life—Children's Choir to Sing at Tonight's Service—Evangelist to Address Sunday Schools at the Tent Tomorrow Afternoon.

"How is it you're not the man you ought to be? Why blame it on someone else? If you are not what you ought to be, your wife's husband is the one to blame," said Evangelist Smith, addressing himself last night to the non-professors, who offer various excuses for not becoming Christians.

"You ask what's the matter with the churches, and say there are hypocrites in them. I know it. So there are in your lodge, but you don't get out. The churches were not made for perfect people, but for those who want to be better. And then you pick out the worst church members, you can find and pass over all the fine men and women who honor God. If a hypocrite gets into the church it's our duty to try and make him better. Because a hypocrite does get into the church it's no proof that the church isn't good. If some of you carried out your ideas about the church you'd have a whist party at one end, a prize fight at the other, and a dance hall in the middle.

"One man told me he couldn't believe the Bible because it was too inconsistent and asked me where Cain got his wife. I told him he got her from his father-in-law. Some men are more concerned about other men's wives than they are about their own.

"Get in tune with God and the Bible won't trouble you so much.

"Ask some people why they are not Christians and they'll tell you they don't feel like it. Had I consulted my own wishes I wouldn't be here tonight. I had a doctor with me in my room ten minutes before I came."

The subject of the sermon was obedience, the evangelist using Saul's disobedience to portray the result of sin. The text was from the words found in I Samuel, 15:22: "To obey is better than sacrifice." He dwelt upon the story of God's command to Saul to destroy the Amalachites and Saul's disobedience which resulted in the loss of his throne and power. For many years the Amalachites had been carrying off their young men and women and destroying their crops. God decided that they had wrought enough misery and He determined to destroy them. He ordered Samuel to tell Saul to muster his army and march against them, destroying every one of them, with their property.

Saul marched against them and destroyed all the people, save the king whom he brought back in irons. He kept the finest sheep and the finest oxen. God was wroth with Saul and sent Samuel out to meet him. Saul was telling of his conquest, when the sheep began to bleat and the oxen to low. His "sins had found him out."

"Into Samuel's ear you could hear the sobs of a disappointed God as He told Samuel that Saul had disobeyed Him," said the preacher. "It was the sob of a disappointed God weeping and pleading with a rebellious man.

"I wonder how many of us here tonight are rebellious? Listen! suppose God should write upon the forehead of every man here just what he is, how long could we keep this congregation together? I can hear God telling Samuel, "Saul has turned back from following Me." And Samuel cried all night. His crying was not the last time a preacher has cried over his congregation. Listen! It isn't work that disheartens a preacher—it is the inconsistency of his followers. You church officials and Sunday school teachers, have you gone back on God? You church members in Alexandria are either tying your ministers' hands and making it harder for him to preach or you are helping to make his work easier. Which is it?

"Saul's trouble came because he didn't turn sin down. I've been in your city two weeks and not one man has invited me to play cards or offered me a cigar, no one has invited me to go to a dance. Why? You say they wouldn't insult me. No, and they wouldn't insult you if they knew where you stood! There are too many trimmers—people don't know where they stand.

With a tinge of sadness in his voice, after having made a passionate appeal to the unconverted to go forward and accept Christ, one only having responded, the evangelist suddenly turned and addressing the church members, said: "If you Christian people are not going to help me these meetings can be stopped right here and spell failure. I've done the best I could". But turning to the great audience before him he again lifted his voice in another earnest request to those who were unsaved to make the start, when five more went forward and grasped his hand, making six in all who took a stand for Christ during the evening.

Gypsy Smith, Jr. Epigrams

I know some of you don't like revivals. Neither does the devil.

Some people have an idea that religion is moving in uniformity in one old rut.

The difference between a rut and a grave is that the grave is a little deeper—both accomplish the same result.

You say a revival is only temporary. So is a bath, but it does good while it lasts.

What we need is a baptism of horse sense.

Don't blame God if your boys and girls go wrong. Your example may have started them.

Some people stand outside so they can dodge the collection.

Notes and Announcements

Another meeting for the children will be held at the tent this afternoon at 3 o'clock. "Willie Jones" is expected to be present.

Evangelist Smith will address the members of the Sunday Schools at the tent at 3 o'clock Sunday afternoon at the close of the big parade. Seats will be reserved for them in the center of the auditorium.

KILLS BABY FOR CRYING

Montgomery County Farm Hand Chokes His One-Year-Old Daughter to Death.

Rockville, Md., Sept 16—Douglass Shipley, a farm hand, 23 years old, whose home is near Unity this county, was committed to jail here yesterday on a charge of murdering his baby girl, aged about one year. His wife, formerly Hattie Tavenner, of this county, was his accuser.

At an early hour yesterday morning Deputy Sheriff Mareen Darby, who lives near Redland, received a telephone message from Mrs. Shipley saying her husband was killing their baby. Joining Mr. Shipley, who had gone to the house of a neighbor to send the message, Deputy Darby hurried to the Shipley home and found the child dead. Its body still warm. On its face and neck were numerous bruises. While the officer was there Shipley, who was not in sight when Darby arrived, entered the house and was arrested.

According to Mrs. Shipley her husband was somewhat under the influence of liquor Thursday night. During the night he complained that the crying of the baby disturbed him and the mother said he struck the little one several times. This was repeated frequently during the night and finally the father grabbed the infant about the throat and choked it until its tongue protruded.

Mrs. Shipley then fled from the house in her night gown and bare feet and summoned the officer. Mrs. Shipley explained that the reason she did not go sooner was that her husband had threatened to kill her if she made any attempt to leave the house.

After being brought to Rockville Shipley admitted, it is said, striking the baby, but declared he had no intention of killing it.

INDIAN HEAD A MENACE

Reservation So Small That Shells Endanger Homes and River Craft.

Enlargement of the government reservation at Indian Head, Md., where the navy's big guns are tested, is being urged by ordnance officials, who say the largest types now being made cannot be tried out on the present proving grounds without risking destruction of life and property nearby.

An official of high rank yesterday cited a recent experience during the firing tests of a 16-inch rifle. One of the shells, although fired by a reduced charge of powder, penetrated a mass of heavy armor plate, passed through the sand dune behind it and ricocheted into the residence of Mrs. Mary Swann, wrecking the structure and narrowly missing its tenants.

In another case a shell dropped into the front yard of the commandant's residence. It is recalled also that the gunboat Dolphin, with a congressional committee aboard, was narrowly missed by a shell several months ago while passing up the Potomac. The projectile fell so close that spray swept over the Dolphin's decks.

Until the reservation is enlarged ordnance officials declare such accidents are unavoidable, even when most stringent precautions are taken.

STRIPLING'S PLEA.

Danville Man With History Like That of Jean Valjean Appeals to Werner.

"A chance; just a chance to begin life anew," was the plea made to Chief of Police Werner of Richmond this week by Thomas Edgar Stripling, the Danville Jean Valjean.

Stripling convicted of murder in Georgia and sentenced to a long term in the penitentiary of that State, managed to escape, and for a number of years evaded all efforts of the police to locate him. He began a new life after his escape, and settled in Danville. There he won the respect of citizens and secured a place on the police force. During the years he was in Danville he rose rapidly as a policeman, and had been serving as chief of police of Danville for several years when a visitor from Georgia recognized him as the escaped prisoner.

Stripling was arrested and taken back to Georgia, where the identification was completed. He was sentenced to prison for his unexpired term, but it was generally believed that he would be pardoned after a term of one year. However, year after year went by and the pardon was not forthcoming.

In the meantime his family was in dire straits. His wife was ill with a small child dependent upon her for support. During a vist to her father, Stripling's little girl, Bessie, learned that the Governor was visiting the prison. She succeeded in having him pointed out to her, and pleaded with him for the liberty of her father. The appeal touched the Governor's heart, and he promised to send "daddy" home a free man as soon as it could be arranged. Six weeks ago the Governor of Georgia made good his promise.

Stripling made his way back to Virginia. He has not been back to Danville and will not go there he says He will reside in Richmond in the future, and is now looking for a job.

KILLS HER BEST FRIEND

Nashville, Tenn., Sept., 16.—A Jackson, Tenn., special says that Miss Kate Davis, 18, shot and instantly killed Miss Winnie Moore, daughter of G. H. Moore, her best friend, in the store of R. E. Rogers there late Thursday. The young women were keeping store while the proprietor was attending the county fair, and in a drawer found a pistol which Miss Davis pointed at her friend, thinking it unloaded. The weapon was discharged, the bullet taking effect in the girl's forehead.

NEW INDUSTRY FOR ALEXANDRIA

BIG BREWERY BUILDINGS TO BE USED

The Robert Portner Brewing Company to Engage in the Manufacturing of Dairy, Stock and Poultry Feeds Operations to Begin About First of Year.

The Gazette is gratified to be able to announce that the city of Alexandria is to have another industry to take the place of the Robert Portner Brewery which is to go out of the brewing business November 1st, on account of the State law which goes into effect on that date.

Citizens of Alexandria one and all will be glad to learn that the Robert Portner Brewing Company will engage in the manufacture of stock, dairy and poultry feeds, and that the present buildings owned by the company will be utilized for that purpose.

The company is already investigating and arranging for the purchase of the necessary machinery, and it is expected that they will begin operations around the first of the year.

The plant will have a capacity of 20 tons per hour of the various kinds of feeds they will handle.

The industry will supply a long felt need this locality which may be readily understood when it is known, that the State of Virginia alone consumes about 200,000 tons of these feeds per year, nearly all of which comes from the western States.

The firm will remain under the same ownership as at present and under the management of Mr. W. Stark, a practical feed man who gained his experience in the business while assistant state chemist in Mississippi.

All will join the Gazette in wishing the new enterprise abundant success and prosperity.

EYES SET ON ALEXANDRIA

New Armor Plant May Be Located on Site in This City

PROSPECTS BRIGHTEN

Secretary Daniels Orders Inspection of Places Here—Washington Favors Alexandria

Officials of the Navy Department shortly will begin the task of selecting a site for the $11,000,000 government armor plant from the locations offered by representatives of 125 cities in various parts of the East and South by personally inspecting those offered by Washington and Alexandria and other principal points. The nearness to the National Capital, with consequent advantage of proximity to the source of support by appropriations from Congress and the Navy Department, is expected to prove an important factor in the inspection of these sites, and to enhance the possibility of the ultimate selection of either Washington or Alexandria.

It is the plan of Secretary Daniels to divide the country into zones, and first have the obviously eligible sites inspected by members of the staff. Owing to the length of time a personal inspection will entail it is not expected that a decision will be reached and announced for at least two, and possibly three months.

Before adjourning the board gave Representative Carlin, of Virginia, permission to file a brief setting forth the natural advantages of Alexandria, and Senator Stone, detailing the advantage of a site at St. Louis. These briefs will be studied by the naval board, together with the arguments presented by the delegations personally, and by correspondence before a decision is announced.

ALEXANDRIA IS THE PROPER PLACE

While the Gazette has been hopeful that the United States Government would realize that Alexandria, would prove the proper place for the new armor plant, we have by no means been optimistic in the face of the fact that so many states in the American union with much greater influence than our city can wield are bidders for this plant. At present, however, the United States officials have their eyes turned upon Alexandria, and an official inspection of the facilites offered by our city will be made before the site is finally selected.

Should it be determined to locate this manufactory at Alexandria from the fact that it is contiguous to Washington and the Indian Head proving grounds, an era will dawn upon our city which will be hailed with delight, not only here but by people of the capital of the United States who will rejoice with us.

Alexandria for many years has worked in season, out of season, to increase its commercial importance. Winds have often been contrary and at times we have become inexcusably pessimistic, but quick to rise superior to our difficulties.

Many years ago a member of the House of Representatives alluded to Alexandria during a debate. His words were heartless "That old city is destined to meet its final by the tooth of time." Another Congressman shortly after the civil war was equally as unsympathetic. In referring to another American city he said: "This place is as commercially dead as Alexandria, Virginia."

But we have labored and borne and never lost faith, convinced that Alexandria has a future.

During the retrocession excitement in 1846 it was urged, truthfully, by those who advocated the return of the city to Virginia that the government had not erected a single building on the south side of the Potomac and Alexandria, not wishing to continue a part of the tail of the kite of the District of Columbia, voted to return to the Old Dominion.

But in this day and generation there seems to be a disposition on the part of the present administration to right a wrong inflicted during the early days of the republic. Secretary Daniels will visit our city and make investigation personally of the many facilities offered for the government armor plant.

We have often during the past half a century recapitulated the advantages of Alexandria as a manufacturing centre. We have the railroad facilities and the deep water, and its central position, within sight of Washington and within an hour's run to Baltimore, three to Philadelphia and five or six to New York, it is naturally an ideal spot for any business enterprise. We are not blind to the fact that the fight for the armor plant has given our city a country-wide advertisement, as Alexandria is now regarded as a formidable competitor for this great desideratum. The following from today's Washington Post is justly appreciated by every Alexandrian:

"The public-spirited citizens of Alexandria have made a splendid showing for their city as a site for the new naval armor plant. The advantages of Alexandria have been clearly set forth, and they constitute a formidable showing as against rival aspirants. The same arguments put forth in behalf of the District of Columbia apply in the main to Alexandria, and, so far as depth of water is concerned, it must be confessed that Alexandria has a shade the better of the comparison.

"Interior points, however advantageously located with respect to coal and limestone supplies, do not meet other requirements of equal or greater importance. The armor plant should have deep-water facilities for bringing in raw materials and dispatching finished armor to the various navy yards and private shipyards. It should also be within easy reach of Washington in order that superior authority may give it direct supervision at all times.

"Alexandria meets all requirements. The facilities for water shipment are ample. The railroad connections are satisfactory. Sources of supply are nearby, with the exception of iron ore, which can be brought from Cuba as cheaply as Lake Superior ores can be tranported by rail to other proposed sites. The climate favors operations throughout the whole year. The plant is centrally located with reference to Northern and Southern shipyards. Labor is available and living conditions are good.

"If for any reason the Secretary of the Navy should decide that the plant should not be located in the District of Columbia, he will make no mistake if he should choose Alexandria."

NIL DESPERANDUM.

One of the New Testament writers has penned the following: "Behold the husbandman waiteth for the precious fruit of the earth and hath long patience for it, until he receives the early and the latter rain."

The above passage with several others was brought to mind at the gospel tent last night while listening to the earnest efforts of Gypsy Smith to arouse the church members to activity in the great work now being carried on in our midst. There was a larger congregation present than on the preceding night, and the interest manifested in the meeting is shown by the fact that a large percentage of the population of the city appears nightly and enjoys the songs of praise and the spirited discourses, which set all thinking.

Mr. Smith however, was not in good physical condition last night: he was indisposed, probably by the sudden change in the weather, augmented, perhaps, by what he thinks is spiritual languor upon the part of the hundreds whose souls are with him in the gospel crusade. During his discourse, like other anticipative people who fail to see immediate fruits of their labors, he spoke, somewhat despondently and implied that results in Alexandria would not be as satisfactory as he and the various church committees had supposed. Let us hope he and his coadjutors will be agreebly mistaken.

The evangelist, while imparting valuable lessons to his hearers, is sowing precious seed. He may have passed to his reward before the blade appears, but the full wheat in the ear, will, we believe, come eventually.

But seventeen persons so far, have advanced and stood forth as witnesses for Christ. This fact seemed, naturally, to distress the earnest preacher.

We have read of an English minister who preached a year and during which he had but one convert to encourage him in his work. That convert, however, went to China and became one of the most successful missionaries of his day.

A little girl once dropped a penny into a collection box for the purpose of buying tracts for distribution. That penny was used to secure a missive which was read by a man who had previously paid no attention to the claims of his Maker. He became a convert and through his influence many hundreds of persons were added to the Lord. Mr. Smith may, unconsciously, be tutoring a Moody.

TAFT AND WILSON

When Professor Taft, of Yale, writes "there are so many reasons why Mr. Wilson should not be continued at the head of the Administration, that some important ones are apt to be forgotten in their multiplicity," he uses language that most persons will consider as strikingly applicable to his own occupancy of the White House. As an exchange observes, never was there a President who was more anxious to do the right thing, and never was there one who had such a faculty for making stupid blunders. The multiplicity of reasons why he was able to carry only two States, Utah and Vermont, in 1912, was such that a book would be required to enumerate them.

There are some very striking differences between the Taft and the Wilson Administration. The Yale professor went into office in 1909 with a united party behind him and with the indorsement of a substantial majority of the American people. He left it in 1913 after one of the most humiliating defeats in our national history, with his party split in two, and with a record barren of important achievements. Woodrow Wilson, on the other hand, began his Presidential career as a successful minority candidate and under circumstances not unlike those which marked Lincoln's advent into office. After three years of astonishing performances, and difficulties greater than any President except Lincoln has had to face, he has so strengthened and consolidated his party that it now faces its old antagonist on fairly equal terms.

In view of Mr. Taft's well-known proclivity for putting his foot in it on the slightest provocation some kind friend should warn him of the blunder he makes in inviting comparisons between his administration and that of President Wilson. The contrast is not unlike that of a thoroughbred and a slow-moving cart horse.

THE VICIOUS CIRCLE.

The State Journal of Richmond says the railroad employes are going to take a bite out of the railroads by way of getting ten hours' pay for eight hours' work. Thereupon the railroads say they must have a bite out of the merchants, manufacturers and builders by increase of transportation rates. Then the merchants, manufacturers, and builders will take a bite out of the public, including the railroad employes, though higher prices to meet their increased expenses. When the railroad employes discover that their living expenses are increased, and that they need more wages to enjoy the same things they used to enjoy, the vicious circle will be complete, and they may wish to take another bite out of the railroads. And the railroad employes are not the only ones playing at this game. So after all are we not trying to eat ourselves up?

If we belonged to one brotherhood, a performance like the recent railroad trouble would simply be levying an assessment on ourselves for ourselves. But such is not the case. We are divided into many brotherhoods, each seeking its own ends. Can any more perfect means be found to breed strife and bring on ultimate disaster? Can no better way be found to govern men and insure them justice than segregating them into bands and factions? This is not the brotherhood which embraces all mankind. We look forward to the passing of the old order of strife and the dawn of the clearer day, when men will see that there will be a place for everybody and plenty of work for everybody and reward for each according to his merits, because we will have ceased to prey upon each other. When this day comes there will be no tyranny of one class or faction over another nor will it be socialism, but it will be the brotherhood of democracy, wherein the weak brother and the strong brother will each find his place and do the work best suited to his capacity without crowding the other.

LABOR AND BROTHERHOODS.

It is altogether likely that the President's attitude during the railroad strike situation will add to his support a very great majority of the labor vote, regardless of former affiliations, particularly in view of Mr. Hughes' attack on the eight-hour day legislation. The above is a suggestion of the Richmond Times-Dispatch, which says "but it should not be taken for granted that the support of labor, or the labor unions, will be due to any love for the railroad brotherhoods. On the contrary, the average trade union has no more love for any one of the brotherhoods than it has for an association of railroad presidents. Whether due to the fact that the brotherhoods form what is designated an aristocracy of labor," or to the frequently iterated charge that they are not only intensely selfish, but have at times actively opposed other unions, they are altogether unloved by labor in general. Indeed, they are not even affiliated with the American Federation of Labor. In voting for Mr. Wilson the workers of the country will be vindicating his entire policy, not back up the brotherhoods."

WHY FORD IS FOR WILSON

Henry Ford's announcement in the San Francisco papers that he will support Wilson had been anticipated by his previous utterances, but his decision, it is interesting to note, is not based entirely on the fact that the President has kept us out of war. The Baltimore Sun says for that important service Mr. Ford naturally gives him great credit, but while a pacifist, the automobile manufacturer is also a business man and estimates the value of men and things by business standards. He supports the President not only because he has kept the country at peace, but because of the many other good things which he has done for it. "Every neighbor you meet," he says, "will tell you the good things in the administration of President Wilson."

That is the way a Detroit business man looks at the Democratic nominee. And the "good things" of the Wilson regime seem to be "neighborhood" talk in Michigan. The Republicans will have to look after this Ford belt of influence. If everybody in Michigan who voted for Ford in the Republican primaries agrees with him in his estimate of Mr. Wilson, Mr. Hughes will have very little show in that State.

Mr. Edison, the great inventor, it will be remembered, supports the President for practically the same reasons tha influence Mr. Ford — for the "good things" he has done. Against these "good things" the Republicans have only bad words and mpty vituperation.

HOME NEWS TRAVELS SLOW.

How a sixteen-inch solid steel shell ore straight through a home near he government gun-testing grounds t Indian Head, Md., passing through he room adjoining that in which were woman and three daughters, neither f whom was injured, was reported n Washington this week. In looking over a copy of the Alexandria Gazette of 1856 we noticed that it took hree months at that time to get news rom San Francisco to Washington. he crashing of the shell through the ndian Head home took place about ix weeks ago, according to Alexanrians, who reside at the place. Indian Head is about twenty-five miles elow this city, and it has taken a onth and a half to get the news to his city and Washington, although overnment steamers make daily runs rom the proving grounds to the Vashington navy yard.

LORIMER'S DEFEAT.

As the Richmond Virginian observes obody regrets it. William Lorimer as been defeated in his effort to come back," in politics.

Expelled from the United States enate because of gross irregularities n the manner in which he had won election to that body, he has now, fter a few years of enforced retirement, made attempt to secure election o the House from his old congressional district, the Sixth Illinois. He was defeated in the Republican primary for the nomination.

It was such men as Lorimer who made themselves the tools of the great business interests, betraying the American people for a mess of political pottage. The day of such is gone never, we trust, to return.

Jacob S. Coxey, of Masillon, Ohio, who more than 20 years ago led "Coxey's army" of unemployed on a long march to Washington has filed papers as an independent candidate for United States senator.

SAVES DAUGHTER

Advice of Mother no Doubt Prevents Daughter's Untimely End.

Ready, Ky.—"I was not able to do anything for nearly six months," writes Mrs. Laura Bratcher, of this place, "and was down in bed for three months.

I cannot tell you how I suffered with my head, and with nervousness and womanly troubles.

Our family doctor told my husband he could not do me any good, and he had to give it up. We tried another doctor, but he did not help me.

At last, my mother advised me to take Cardui, the woman's tonic. I thought I was no use for I was nearly dead and nothing seemed to do me any good. But I took eleven bottles, and now I am able to do all of my work and my own washing.

I think Cardui is the best medicine in the world. My weight has increased, and I look the picture of health."

If you suffer from any of the ailments peculiar to women, get a bottle of Cardui today. Delay is dangerous. We know it will help you, for it has helped so many thousands of other weak women during the past 50 years.

TALK WITH AN ALEXANDRIAN

Walter C. Dameron of N. Columbus Street, Tells of an Interesting Experience

There is nothing like a talk with one of our own citizens for giving hope and encouragement to the anxious sufferer from the dread kidney disease. We therefore, give here an interview with an Alexandria man:

Mr. Dameron, says: "My back hurt so badly that often I had to lay off from work. After I got down, I couldn't straighten up again without sharp pains catching me across my kidneys. There was hardly a night passed that my back didn't ache. My kidneys acted too frequently and during the night I had to get up every little while. When morning came, I felt so tired and weak that I could hardly drag myself out of bed. I doctored and tried different medicine but felt no better until I procured Doan's Kidney Pills at Henry Callan's Drug Store. I took about six boxes in all and since then I have had but little trouble from my kidneys and have felt like a different person."

Price 50c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mr. Dameron, had. Foster-Milburn Co., Props, Buffalo, N. Y.

ANGRY AT BANK'S ACTION

Julian Morris and W. W. Osborne, Indicted at Staunton, Give Their Version of Transaction.

Orange, Va., Sept. 16—Julian Morris and W. W. Osborne, who were indicted along with George W. Dodge and J. J. Connolly, of New York, in the Corporation Court of Staunton, were in Orange Thursday, and expressed indignation at the action which they supposed was taken by the Staunton National bank.

They state that they purchased, through a man named Whitmore, a carload of horses, giving Whitmore a draft drawn by George W. Dodge, Inc., on Dodge Brothers, of Los Angeles, Cal., but, by agreement of all parties, the bank included, the draft was not indorsed by Morris and Osborne, and was to be paid on presentation in New York. They say the Staunton bank honored the draft on telegraphic advice received by it from New York, but, on presentation the draft was not paid. They also state that the Staunton bank did not advise them about its dishonoring the drafts for two weeks, or until after the drafts were sent to Los Angeles and returned protested from there.

In the meantime, the horses, which might have been stopped in transit, were disposed of by Dodge Brothers in New York and the money converted to their use. Osborne and Morris got none of the proceeds, they say. They declare they regard the action taken in Staunton as an effort to force them to assume a debt which they do not owe.

Mr. Morris went to Staunton voluntarily yesterday and gave bail.

PYRITES AT OCCOQUAN

Mines Near Prince William Town To Be Reopened and Business Resumed.

According to reports, the pyrites mine near Occoquan, Va., will shortly be ready to resume operations, and the loading of barges there for the sulphuric acid-making plants at Alexandria, Norfolk and Baltimore will be started soon. The Manassas Democrat says for several years prior to 1915 the mine was operated and quantities of the material were sent to Alexandria for the acid-making plant located there, as well as being shipped away. Then the shaft caved in and the mine filled with water, and it has been only recently that pumping out of the water was completed, after a new shaft was sunk.

It is stated the new shaft is a pendicular and is about 700 feet deep. As soon as the digging of the ore is resumed it is stated, the big covered lighter of the Alexandria Fertilizer and Chemical Company will be sent to the mine for a load of the self-making material.

Oyster season now open at the Rammel Cafe.

VIRGINIA NEWS

Paragraphs Picked Up Here and There Throughout the State.

Farmers in Spotsylvania, county are jubilant over the splendid crop of corn and grass now being harvested. All over the county folks are busy cutting corn and pulling fodder and preparing for the sowing of new crops. The season is very propitious.

Southerners are not as unhealthy as is generally supposed, said Dr. J. Allison Hodges, of Richmond, in an address yesterday at St. Louis, before the American Life Convention. He declared unfounded the belief that Southern people have a lower vitality than Northerners, and said that as a whole conditions in the South tended to longevity.

It is still possible for drug addicts to get relief at the hands of kindly physicians in this state for emergency purposes, according to records on file at the offices or the state board of pharmacy. Just a short while ago a colored physician prescribed one pound of gum opium for a patient in Virginia—not far from Richmond. Another case of obliging a patient has come to light through a report made by Fred H. Hoback, narcotic inspector for the Sixth district of Virginia. Five gallons of tincture of opium (laudanum) was prescribed for Miss—— the same directions as in the case of one pound of gum opium being followed—"As directed."

Several hundred soda fountains in Richmond—in fact, nearly every one in the city—are confronted with the necessity of closing up, unless the order of the pure food department of the state, effective yesterday requiring all glasses used at soda fountains to be sterilized after each use or that paper cups be used, is extended for several days until the soda fountains have had time with which to comply with the new demand. Dealers say it will be exceedingly difficult to comply with the new order. To install a sterilizer would require from ten days to two weeks, it is said, and paper cups are expensive and have to be ordered some time in advance. There is no manufactory of either sterilizers or paper cups in this state it is reported, and it will consume several weeks to ship them.

Whether First Lieutenant Paul Hespe, of the converted German cruiser Prinz Eitel Friedrich, and Miss Hildegrade Schwieger are to be married in Norfolk or in Philadelphia, depends upon whether the Imperial permit from the Kaiser reaches them before the Eitel and the Kronprinz Wilhelm are moved, on October 1, from Portsmouth, where they are interned, to Philadelphia. For about 18 months now the young couple have been contemplating matrimony. Some seven months ago Miss Schwieger came to the United States from her native Germany to meet her fiance at Norfolk and to become Mrs. Hespe. The decree from the German Emperor permitting the marriage—a formal bit of red tape necessary in the case of German army and navy officers—was dispatched. But it has not yet arrived. Presumably it was nabbed by the British authorities, along with other mail consigned to the United States.

ROBBERS LOOT BANK

Miami, Fla. Sept 13 While two confederates waited outside in an automobile, two heavily armed men today held up officials of the State Bank, of Homestead, a village 30 miles south of this place, robbed the counters of $6,000 and escaped toward the Everglades.

The two robbers who entered the bank forced S. R. Pridgen, vice president ,and E. Z. Crowley, cashier, to face the wall with their hands above their heads and took all the cash in sight.

Posses, assisted by the Miami police, gave chase. A report that a racing car containing four women was seen ten miles west of here gave rise to the belief that the robbers had changed dress to confuse the police.
